

Teradata Customers Named Winners in The Data Warehousing Institute Prestigious 2006 Best Practices Award Competition

June 30, 2006 at 10:31 AM EDT

DAYTON, Ohio--(BUSINESS WIRE)--June 30, 2006--Teradata, a division of NCR Corporation (NYSE:NCR), announced today that its data warehousing customers received four prestigious best practices awards for 2006 from The Data Warehouse Institute (TDWI). The industry-celebrated awards are presented annually to recognize companies with innovative business intelligence and data warehousing projects.

Standing out from among many competing submissions, Teradata customers were acknowledged for their exceptional leadership in the development and execution of data-warehouse-driven business practices generating significant business value:

- Royal Bank of Canada - Enterprise Data Warehouse
- Nationwide Insurance - Master Data Management
- Pannon GSM - Predictive Analytics
- BNSF Railway, Inc. - Business Performance Management.

"Active enterprise intelligence is clearly becoming a differentiating factor for highly successful companies. Companies are now capable of making better operational decisions faster because of their business intelligence tools," said Randy Lea, vice president of Teradata product and service marketing. "Teradata technology extends the business intelligence capability for strategic business planners to the front-line business users who rely on the intelligence to make thousands of revenue-generating business decisions every day."

According to TDWI, the best practices awards program is designed to identify and honor companies that have demonstrated excellence in developing, deploying, and maintaining business intelligence and data warehousing applications. Winners are chosen by a panel of independent judges who have expertise in business intelligence and data warehousing.
