Carrier adding new NCR TouchPort™ check-in kiosks at domestic hub airports

DULUTH, Ga.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 4, 2013-- China Southern Airlines ("China Southern") is making everyday easier for its passengers at key domestic hub airports with the addition of a complete self-service airport check-in solution from NCR Corporation (NYSE:NCR). NCR TouchPort kiosks have been deployed at 10 key domestic hub airports in Haikou, Dalian, Wuhan, Hefei, Chongqing, Urumqi, Guilin, Nanning, Changsha and Zhengzhou.

The NCR solution includes the hardware as well as common-use self-service (CUSS) platform software, which allows applications from other SkyTeam Alliance member airlines to also run on the kiosks. NCR will also provide support services to China Southern to ensure maximum availability.

NCR has been a technology provider to China Southern since 2009 and has become the Airline's primary supplier for self-service check-in solutions, which now total about 160 units. The technology solution allows passengers to check-in, access flight information, register for membership, scan and print boarding passes and check mileage status.

Expanding self-service check-in has become a key part of China Southern's strategy to improve service efficiency and quality. This hardware and software enhance the self-service offerings at the Airline's domestic hub airports, and further improve the passenger experience.

"We are honored to strengthen our partnership with China Southern by making travel easier and more convenient for its passengers with innovative technology that streamlines and improves the passenger experience," said Tyler Craig, NCR Travel Vice President and General Manager.
