Highly respected business publication completes independent survey of American workers to identify companies providing employees with the best situations

DULUTH, Ga--(BUSINESS WIRE)--May 4, 2015-- NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR), the global leader in consumer transaction technologies, was recently named by Forbes magazine as one of America's best employers for 2015. This is the first time that Forbes has published a Top Employer list and NCR was among the select group of technology companies recognized.

Forbes, in partnership with Statista.com, surveyed more than 20,000 American workers spanning large U.S. companies, nonprofits, government agencies and U.S. divisions of multinationals. Employees were consulted anonymously to preserve confidentiality and the integrity of the process. The most important dimension of the assessment was an employee's willingness to recommend his or her own employer.

"The reinvention of NCR has been the collective passion of our employees for a decade, and one of the greatest compliments we can receive is when employees share the pride they feel working for our company," said Chairman and CEO Bill Nuti. "This accolade, from one of the most reputable business publications, belongs to our employees and speaks to their exceptional talents and commitment to moving NCR and our customers' businesses forward. I am proud of how far we have come and excited for the opportunities ahead of us."

The recognition as one of "America's Best Companies 2015" comes at an exciting time in NCR's history. Recently, NCR celebrated 130 years of service and innovation and a decade of reinvention under CEO Bill Nuti. The company has also announced plans to create a new world headquarters campus in midtown Atlanta to continue inspiring employees and customers as well as attract and retain top talent.

"NCR is a very different and a much stronger company today than it was even just a few short years ago," said Andrea Ledford, SVP, Corporate Services and Chief Human Resources Officer. "The strength of our business, our leadership in the markets we serve, and our ability to help our customers succeed is all driven by our employees and our uniquely strong, innovative culture, making NCR a special place to work."
