Launch extends Business Banking capabilities to iPhone, iPad and Android devices

DULUTH, Ga.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 22, 2016-- NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR), a global leader in omni-channel solutions, today announced the launch of Business Banking Mobile, extending the SaaS-based platform to customers' mobile devices. The application will allow community financial institutions (CFIs) to compete with larger financial institutions by providing their business banking customers with iOS and Android access to this secure and easy-to-use account management platform.

"Business Banking Mobile is yet another strong example of NCR's omni-channel leadership in the financial services industry," said Jose Resendiz, Vice President & General Manager, NCR. "This launch is further proof that NCR is leading the reinvention of how financial institutions connect with their business customers and create better experiences for them, while lowering costs and delivering a differentiated banking platform."

NCR's Business Banking Mobile extends the award-winning user experience from Digital Insight's retail Mobile Banking Apps used by hundreds of financial institutions and millions of individual account holders to the small and medium-sized business. By providing one segmented platform designed for small businesses, business owners will be able to securely access key financial tools on-the-go, including multi-TIN transaction history and transfers, approval workflows for wire and ACH templates and payments, token support, mobile notifications, and end user management. Business Banking Mobile will also feature biometric authentication by incorporating Touch ID and EyePrint ID for added security.

NCR's Business Banking Mobile is currently in beta testing at Tacoma, Washington-based Harborstone Credit Union.

"We recognized the need for providing our business members a mobile solution to help them keep their business running while on-the-go," said Ken Bloomfield, VP of Marketing and Digital Experience, Harborstone. "The Business Banking Mobile solution offered by NCR is in direct alignment with our commitment to our business members, fulfilling our omni-channel promise."

Business Banking Mobile is also being piloted by El Paso, Texas-based FirstLight Federal Credit Union, with general availability planned in early 2017.

"FirstLight is excited to offer a customized app for businesses that will provide our members with mobile access for transferring funds, checking balances, approving wire transfers and ACHs, receiving account notifications and more," said Jim Huff, SVP of Marketing, FirstLight FCU. "We are also looking forward to the strong development capabilities that NCR and Digital Insight bring to the table to ensure that the product continues to evolve as financial technology evolves."
