NCR Names New Leader to Accelerate Digital Banking Growth

January 29, 2019

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 29, 2019-- NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR), a global enterprise technology company, today announced that Douglas Brown is named General Manager for Digital Banking in NCR's Banking Business Unit.

"We're the leader in Digital Banking across the United States, with over 600 clients across major banks, community financial institutions and more," said Frank D'Angelo, President, NCR Banking. "Yet we see Digital Banking as a huge opportunity for NCR and Doug is the best person in the industry to accelerate that growth."

Brown was most recently at FIS, where he was Head of Digital and Mobile for the North American banking division. He was previously Senior Vice President of Mobile Banking at Bank of America.

A report last month in Magnify Money named the top 10 mobile banking apps in the US. NCR's Digital Banking solutions power five of the top 10 and three of the top five. NCR plans to further expand and enhance the solution for customers in 2019, including optimization for the latest developments on the iOS™ and Android™ platforms, a refreshed and responsive user interface for Business Banking, and a new Experience Groups tool that enables customers to segment users based on their individual financial needs.

NCR Digital Banking solutions are built on an open platform to support new and unique experiences financial institution customers want to deliver. Over the next year, NCR will open the platform even further by offering a greater number of APIs and enhanced developer tools inside a new Developer Portal.

"Our opportunity is incredible. We've got the best product on the market and we're making it better in 2019," said Brown. "We're going to show the industry why digital banking from NCR is the best choice now and for the future of banking."
