

Teradata Selected One of the 'Top 12 Companies to Watch' for Business Intelligence

February 6, 2002 at 1:36 PM EST

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb 6, 2002 /PRNewswire via COMTEX/ -- Teradata, a division of NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR), has been selected as one of the "Top 12 Companies to Watch" for business intelligence by Intelligent Enterprise magazine, a CMP Media publication. The recognition was based on significant contributions to the development of enterprise data warehousing.

"IT and business leaders will increasingly rely on these 12 companies in 2002 to enable their businesses to be smarter, faster, and more profitable," said Justin Kestelyn, editor-in-chief of Intelligent Enterprise. "Recognized for significant contribution to the development of intelligent enterprises, each of the 12 companies have proven their excellence in gathering, analyzing, sharing and acting upon data-driven intelligence."

"The Teradata(R) data warehouse has been designed to power the next generation of global active data warehouses providing businesses with a single, integrated view of their business," said Stephen Brobst, chief technology officer for Teradata. "Active data warehousing with Teradata offers knowledge not only to top management, but instantly puts the company's intelligence in the hands of front-line employees, empowering them to make better decisions -- faster and cheaper -- than their competition."
