Daniels brings great depth and balance of legal experience to global leader in point of service solutions

DULUTH, Ga., Apr 19, 2010 (BUSINESS WIRE) --NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR) today named Jennifer Daniels as its general counsel and corporate secretary, reporting to NCR Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Bill Nuti. Daniels, 46, most recently served as vice president, general counsel and secretary of Barnes & Noble, Inc. She will be responsible for all legal matters at the company. Ms. Daniels was selected following an extensive search and evaluation of internal and external candidates.

Earlier in her career, Daniels served for over sixteen years with IBM, holding positions including vice president, general counsel for IBM Americas, vice president, assistant general counsel for litigation and most recently, vice president, assistant general counsel and chief trust and compliance officer (the first in IBM's history).

Following her graduation, with distinction, from Harvard Law School, Ms. Daniels served as an attorney in two private law firms in the state of New York.

"We were very fortunate to be able to find a candidate with the depth and balance of experience that Jennifer brings to NCR," said Bill Nuti. "I'm very pleased to be able to announce her appointment today."

Nuti continued, "Jennifer has produced an outstanding record of results throughout her career, and has skills that span all the dimensions of corporate law and governance, from IP and litigation to compliance and contracts. She will be a critical partner to her colleagues on our Leadership Team, will help to ensure that we're a great company with whom to do business and that the interests of our stakeholders are protected always."

"I'm very excited to join NCR at this time," said Ms. Daniels. "We're in a terrific position to shape and lead the ongoing revolution in self-service solutions, and I look forward to applying my experiences to the challenges of expanding and protecting our global leadership in this dynamic marketplace."
