ATLANTA and TORONTO, Jan. 16 /PRNewswire/ -- NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR) has named MindTheStore.com (MTS) -- a leading innovator in the design and deployment of real-time Web-based point-of-sale (POS) solutions for small to medium specialty store retailers -- an NCR Retail Solutions Provider.

The MTS solution is designed for multiple retail outlets with, typically, one to six POS terminals per store. It provides POS processing, back office applications and host-to-host communications through a secure Internet connection, over standard communication lines, on a pay-as-you-go subscription basis.

"From online sales and back-office functions, to supply chain management and EDI procurement, MTS offers a real-time solution that can address the specific needs of today's specialty retailer," said Des Martin, NCR vice president of Industry Marketing.

Under the agreement, MTS and NCR will offer retailers the opportunity to experience the future of web-based retail management systems -- a real-time solution that offers the combined power of MTS' CORE Technology and NCR's line of POS workstations -- both keyboard and/or touch display models, including the Web-enabled NCR 7454, 7452 and NCR 7453. Comprising the industry's most comprehensive portfolio, NCR's POS workstations are Internet-ready, offer full multimedia capabilities, and support the Microsoft(R) Windows(R) CE operating system as well as Windows 9X, Windows NT and Windows 2000.

About MindTheStore.com

MindTheStore started in 1982 as a small, fledging software company catering to the needs of "Main Street" retailers. Back then, the Company's products helped traditional retailers solve an age-old problem -- how to reconcile sales with inventory. Soon the company became a leader in providing complete end-to-end solutions for small to medium sized merchants.

In 1995, after years of marketing its software through a host of private- label arrangements to run on proprietary platforms, the Company arrived at a strategic crossroad . . . and embarked on the road to becoming "The Network Retail Works On." Today, MindTheStore brings the real world of "bricks and mortar" retailing together with the virtual world of online e-commerce, providing retailers with a one-stop real-time network solution that represents the future of retail.

At the heart of the Solution is MindTheStore's exclusive CORE (Creating Online Retail Efficiency) Technology engine, a powerful retail software management tool that retailers can access through the Internet on a monthly subscription basis.
