Item 1.01 Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On June 28, 2018, NCR Corporation (“NCR” or the “Company”) entered into a Master Hardware Supply Agreement (the “Agreement”) with Universal Global Scientific Industrial Co., Ltd. (“USI”). The Agreement provides for NCR to obtain manufacturing services from USI for NCR’s point of sale and outdoor payment terminals (Optic), as well as NCR-designed motherboard assemblies. Once manufacturing is transitioned, the outsourced manufacturing services will cover products that the Company is currently producing in its Columbus, Georgia area manufacturing plants, which will be closed.

The initial term of the Agreement is three years, and the Agreement renews automatically for one-year periods thereafter unless NCR provides timely written notice of intent to terminate. The Agreement requires USI to manufacture the covered products in accordance with the specifications and quality standards that are implemented in NCR’s existing manufacturing facilities. The Company will purchase covered products from USI to fulfill NCR customer orders, at agreed pricing for initial covered product models. Agreed-upon price calculations will be applied for future adjustments including cost reductions and the addition of models and features. The Agreement also contains customary representations and warranties, limitations on liabilities, and indemnification obligations.

USI, a provider of worldwide manufacturing services and solutions, had been producing and assembling NCR-designed electronic subassemblies for NCR prior to entry into this Agreement.
